

THE NEW ZEALAND INVESTMENT GAME

"Far more challenging and engaging than Monopoly...
As close to real investing as you can possibly get"

- Alistair Helm, realestate.co.nz

Winner: Best Game 2009

The New Zealand Investment Game has been awarded the distinction of being the New Zealand Games Association's "Best New Game" of 2009. Playing the game is the perfect way to hone financial literacy skills for those on their way to financial independence. It's also brilliant for teaching children and grandchildren investment skills.

The game combines a traditional board approach with advanced technology. Computerised simulations provide realtime investing experiences including property auctions, mortgage switching, and even break fees for those who repay fixed term loans early!

Each move is recorded as players traverse the board and make their investment decisions regarding shares, property, bank deposits, kiwisaver, and commodities. The winner is the one who accumulates the greatest wealth and printouts showing each player's investment strategy can be generated.

The New Zealand Investment Game is perfect for games evenings and staff training purposes, as well as family fun. Progressive companies are snapping up the game as an incentive for their staff.

To show his gratitude to the New Zealand Property Investors Federation for sponsoring the New Zealand investment Game, for a limited period Frank is offering the game and a FREE bonus copy of his best-selling "Living of the Smell of an Oily Rag" to NZPIF members at an unbeatable price of $99. That's $175 of value for only $99!
